PRESERVED MOSS WALLS

Discover the future of decor

Take a look at this in depth infographic to learn more about the trend that is taking the eco-design world by storm.

Bring nature inside.

For years now the design world has been obsessed with living green walls. While they are beautiful and promote the production of O₂, they are often quite expensive and can be difficult to maintain.

BRING YOUR LOGO TO LIFE

An economical alternative to living green walls, preserved moss walls are a unique and charming way to display your logo and reinforce the environmental values of your brand.

Because traditional living green walls are comprised of many different potted plants spanning from 4"-6" in diameter, it is very difficult to arrange complex designs in the wall.

Preserved moss walls however, are comprised of small buds of preserved moss. Because there are no pots, or size restrictions, this makes it easy to create complex designs and lettering.

Not to mention the vast color palate of mosses at your disposal to create wonderful masterpieces to represent your brand.

Strengthen the natural feel of your brand with these unique works of art for your brick & mortar locations.

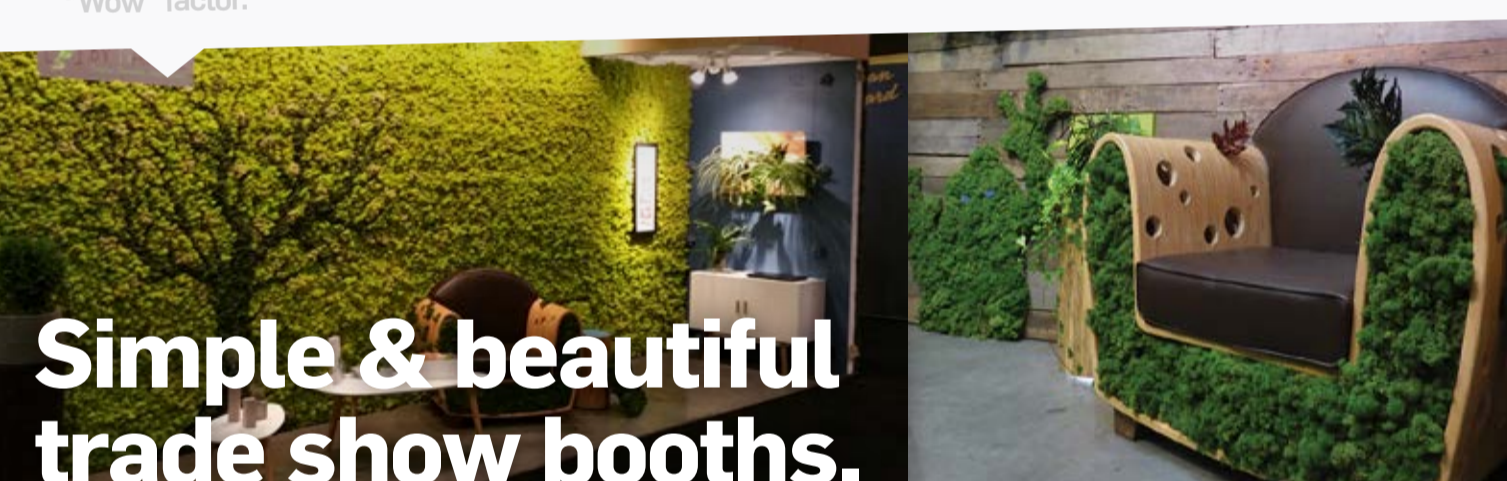

Feature your products.

Looking for an alternative to dull illuminated glass display cases?

Let's face it, retail stores have not evolved visually in a long time, and their success rates are a direct consequence of that. When investing that much money in visual displays don't you think you should stand out from the crowd? Using moss walls to display your products will certainly catch the eye of the every day shopper.
